A: My approach to this problem would be to use the right program to do the right job. My test was a copy of your file using Nirsoft's FileHorse. Your files are over-complicated. There is absolutely no need for the layers you have created. I see both 64bit and 32bit versions of your original. At a minimum, you need only one of the two. Most of your files include unnecessary extras. You just need the original movie and the packaging with the serial number. The extra DVD's you are adding just make your copying process much, much longer. I found that 16 layers made it take well over 30 minutes. NetLimiter was able to strip the unnecessary files and folders from the DVD within a few seconds. Open the DVD you are copying to My Computer. Right click on the DVD icon and choose Copy from the context menu. Choose the folder location where you want the ripped version of the DVD to be stored. NetLimiter will analyze the DVD. It will tell you what files to keep, what files to replace, and what files it will delete. Open the DVD folder and select all files, and then hit delete. Copy the original version of the files back into the DVD folder. NetLimiter may be able to make these files as small as possible. If it does not, you can move all the files to a separate partition on the hard drive and copy them over one by one. Or, you could keep the extra parts you want. It's your call. How to sell your home, or...

Thinking about selling your home?

Are you thinking about the word, 'sell'...perhaps a little like this: 'Sell' might conjure up the vision of a particular home, a home that is in a particular price bracket and is in the right area for you. Now, imagine that you haven't found that perfect home and you are going back to looking for one. Imagine that you haven't found that perfect home and you have in fact stopped looking. How do you get to that point? Well, it is somewhat like that. You have to stop looking. Until you are ready to start again, you have to stop looking. Even though you are selling your home, this means that you have to stop 6d1f23a050
